ASSESSMENTS REMOVED.

Barren County Believed of Its Fourteen Per Cent. Rate.

The State Board of Equalization, in session at Frankfort last week, removed the intended raise of 1 1/2 per cent. on land and 8 on lots in Barren county. The effect of oil wells in that county gave a fictitious valuation to property.

Clark was reduced from 8 to 3 per cent. on land and the 5 on town lots was taken off.

Todd county got a reduction from 20 to 16 per cent. raise on land, and the 8 on town lots was not removed. Webster and Boone could not establish their claim to a reduction and the 20 per cent. increase on land and 4 on town lots in Boone will remain as first fixed by the board. Nicholas county was reduced on land from 20 to 12 per cent., and Allen had the 6 per cent. on land removed.

A few more counties notified the board of their desire for a hearing. The Secretary will now make his calculations of the amounts raised or decreased in each county, and tabulate the assessed and equalized valuations, after which Auditor Norton will be ready to send the official action of the board and authority to the Sheriff in each county for beginning at once upon the collection of the revenue. This official notice could be sent some time next week, but the Legislature not having acted upon the tax rate, which is part of the Revenue and Taxation bill, may cause a delay. The rate for the past two years was 42 cents on the $100 valuation, and, of course, unless it is repealed it will continue as the rate for the present year. While it is not, therefore, necessary that the Legislature should take action on the tax rate, there is good reason to believe that in the general and wholesale changes in the revenue law now under consideration the tax rate is almost likely to be also somewhat affected. If Sheriffs then should begin to collect at 42 cents and learn a month later that the rate had been increased or lowered, it would not only make double trouble and annoyance for them, but also worry and confuse the taxpayers who may be required to pay the extra taxes.

FLOODS IN THE SOUTH.

The Reports to Life and Property Has

Destruction sent out from West Point, Miss., of the devastation caused by the late washouts have not been at all exaggerated, but, in fact, understated. The destruction both of property and life has been awful, and the end is not yet at hand. The Mobile & Ohio, Georgia Pacific and Illinois Central railroads have all been blocked up for the past seven days, but the first named is able to get two trains a day through. The damage done on the Mobile & Ohio in the vicinity of West Point alone will not fall short of $40,000, while the other two roads have been each damaged at least twice that sum.

The first train for seven days on the Georgia Pacific passed the West Point on the 15th inst., but did not go as far as Columbus. All the creeks have exhausted their over-supply of water, but the Tombigbee river is yet as high as ever, and is causing great damage.

The loss of life along the Tombigbee river is said to be nearly 250, principally negroes. Much stock has been drowned, and crops washed away, while planting is necessarily retarded. The damage to bridges, stock, buildings and crops on the Tombigbee, in one county alone, will reach $1,000,000.

The flood is raging in the Mississippi. At Memphis, on the 15th, it was in a few inches of the danger line. The bottoms are covered with water below Memphis, and several persons have been drowned.

A VOTING MACHINE.

Impossible to Vote Twice or Fraudulently, and Counts the Vote.

The Meyers voting machine was first put into practical operation at Lockport, New York, Tuesday. Representatives of leading papers throughout the State and many politicians from the neighboring States as well as New York were in attendance. The machine was unanimously voted a success. The booth is constructed of iron and is about seven feet high by five feet square. The ordinary voter did not require any assistance from fifteen seconds to register his ballots for between 15 and 20 candidates. By the workings of the machine it is absolutely impossible to vote twice or fraudulently. The button opposite any candidate's name being pushed in, is at once locked, as are the buttons of other candidates for the same office, only the button being pushed registering. The closing of the exit door unlocks the buttons and the booth is ready for the admission of another voter. The machine is a time and money saver.

After the closing of the polls only ten minutes were required to open the back of the machine to announce the results and register the total number of votes for each of the 44 candidates, a process that under the usual register of counting ballots requires at least three hours.

KENTUCKY LAND GRANTS.

Complications That Exist in the Eastern Section of the State.

The action of the General Assembly in passing the bill requiring that persons bringing suits on old Virginia and Kentucky land claims based on patents dating prior to 1887, shall have paid taxes on the land for the past twenty years, calls up a rather peculiar state of affairs in the mountains, especially between and adjacent to the branches of the Big Sandy, where, within the past ten years, hundreds of thousands of acres of land have been thrown into litigation. This land has been settled up and occupied under the laws of Kentucky within the last seventy or eighty years. About ten years ago, when, by reason of the great development of the mineral resources of the mountain districts, this land began to increase in value, certain persons in the East laid claim to thousands of acres of the title to which had been unquestioned for half a century. These claims were at first laughed to scorn, till it developed that there was at least some shadow of reason in the claims urged. Many years ago, it develops, the State of Virginia granted certain tracts of land in the then county of Kentucky to citizens of Virginia. Some of the beneficiaries crossed the Blue Ridge and located their grants, defining the boundaries with reference to natural objects. They would return to Virginia, and others would obtain grants by describing tracts of land by means of their situation with reference to the land already described. Those obtaining the concessions of land in many instances never were in the country west of the mountains and their claims had long since been forgotten in Virginia, and had never been heard of by the settlers in Kentucky, when the Eastern claimants, as stated, presented themselves a few years since.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

The County Superintendent of Perry County.

Word reached here last week that G. L. Combs, County Superintendent of Perry county, was shot from ambush on Tuesday while going on horseback from Hazel of his home, fourteen miles distant from the county seat. The shooting occurred at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, on Carr's Fork, near his residence. The ball seemed to belong to a rifle. It entered the loins, and the wounded man thinks it will prove fatal.

No clue to the guilty persons has yet been discovered. Persons near by heard the discharge of the gun and supposed it some one hunting squirrels, but Mr. Combs came galloping up and told them that he was shot.

Mr. Combs is one of the best men in Perry county, and a most efficient officer. He has been making great progress in building up the schools of the county that had been neglected for several years on account of the feud which had been raging there. He had no connection with the French-Eversole feud. He has been having trouble with his neighbors over real estate transactions, and the presumption is that these have been the cause of the tragedy. The Sheriff and posse started at once in search of the would be assassins.

A Turfman With a History.

The Louisville Truth in noting the fact that James T. Williams, the well-known and popular turfman of Indiana, had purchased a handsome building to be on Fourth avenue, Louisville, and would at once erect a fine residence, to be occupied by his family when completed, adds: "Mr. Williams is a turfman with a history. He began life as a newsboy on the railroad trains between Frankfort and Lexington, but being a smart fellow with an eye to the future, he got out of that business as he found something better to do. This led into the thoroughbred horse business. The first valuable horse he ever owned was that honest old campaigner, Fair Play. Afterward he owned the great Checkmate, Enquiries, Aspinwall, Bob Miles, Tom Hood, and the Hon. John G. Carlisle; my second many other good ones. Checkmate alone made him a fortune in the east. Mr. Williams was also the original owner of Luke Blackburn, which great horse he sold to the Dwyers, in his two-year-old form, for $25,000. He is a rich man now, and very naturally comes to the metropolis of his State to live in style and comfort. He has a great many friends in Louisville who will be contributed to him as a permanent resident."

NEW WORLD'S FAIR SCHEME.

An Immense Dormitory for the Use of Women Who Will Visit the Big Show.

Mrs. Potter Palmer and nine other well-known women connected with the Board of Lady Managers of the World's Fair at a meeting recently held at Chicago decided to organize under the name of "Chicago Woman's Dormitory Association," with the purpose of erecting a building for the accommodation of women visiting Chicago to see the Fair, particularly those of limited means. Arrangements were left in the hands of Mrs. Matilda B. Carse. The site, it is expected, will be twelve square blocks of Jackson Park and will be contributed free by George M. Pullman. The aim is to have a structure that will comfortably lodge 5,000 women at a cost of thirty to forty cents a day each.

MURDEROUS SCHEME.

Mutineers Among the Soldiers Located

Mutiny is the latest thing in the camps of the army of Tennessee stationed on the mountain overlooking the convict stockade and works of the Knoxville iron company at Coal Creek. Twelve privates have been holding little secret meetings, and they formed a clique called "The Dirty Dozen," with documents drawn up swearing allegiance to one another in an attempt to overpower the guards and hang two of the non-commissioned officers, who, it seems, had won the dislike of these rebels.

One of them weakened and gave the whole thing away to the officers, and now eleven of the twelve are in chains, under heavy guard, awaiting court martial. The principal leader of the mutineers is Alley Moore, an ex-convict, who had just been pardoned by the governor for desertion from the same camp and army. Every day adds a few to the number of soldiers stationed there, but the miners, from all appearances, have given up all idea of trying to remove them.

Wants Palmer.

A Lexington correspondent to the Courier-Journal, signing himself "A Rank and File Democrat," writes: "It is of the utmost importance that the Democratic party, of which I am an humble member and non-official holder, must lay all personal preferences aside and nominate a man for President at Chicago who will win the race. My first choice is Kentucky's gifted and favorite son and personal preference would be honest Grover Cleveland. I write, 'but my judgment is that we should nominate a Western man, true and tried as a Democrat, and whose motto is: Revenue reform, not personal government, for the people and by the people, and his name is John B. Palmer, of Illinois, rocked in the cradle of Democracy, the soldier, statesman and patriot, whose backbone is large enough, stiff enough and strong enough to stand up for justice and equality to the whole people. Let us go to Chicago in search of such a man, determined to let our personal preferences take a back seat, and we will certainly win. I am old enough to have seen many Presidential contests, and can testify that while the Democrats won they always nominated men for availability. Not from choice of the leaders or factions, Palmer and Russell would sweep the country."

A Candidate's Denial.

The organs are rapidly coming in out of the west. The Indianapolis Sentinel, the leading Democratic paper in Indiana, has deserted Gray, who is only a Hill foil, and is advocating Cleveland. The Brooklyn Eagle, the organ of the King county Democratic party, has declared for Cleveland. The Syracuse Journal, another influential paper in New York State, has shifted to Cleveland. The State Ledger, one of the leading papers in Mississippi, and whose editor introduced a resolution endorsing Hill the day he addressed the Mississippi Legislature, has discarded Hill and declares that "the nominee must be Cleveland." The Selma Times-Mail, which frequently boasted that it was the "original Hill advocate in Alabama," has declared for Cleveland. The Memphis Ledger, which a few weeks ago was advising Tennessee newspapers to join the Hill procession if they wanted to be "in it," has nothing more to say in Hill's behalf, and its editor, who has recently visited New York for three months in anticipation of a murderous assault by the John Felands, Nos. 1 and 2.

Justifiable Murder.

Isaac Axton, who about one month ago shot and killed Jim Wagon, a revenue storekeeper, in a street fight at Knoxville, was acquitted last week on the ground of self-defense. Axton stated under oath that he had carried an open knife in his pocket for three months in anticipation of a murderous assault by the John Felands, Nos. 1 and 2.

HAZEL GREEN HERALD.

SPENCER COOPER, - - - Editor.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.:
FRIDAY, April 22, 1892.

Our space is taken up largely this week with the Poll and Ad Valorem Tax bill adopted by the General Assembly and signed by the Governor, as we consider it a matter of very great importance to the people of this section.

POLL AND AD VALOREM TAX.

Full Text of the Measure as Amended, Adopted and Signed by the Governor.

One of the most important and far-reaching bills that have passed the present General Assembly is that authorizing County Courts to levy a poll and ad valorem tax for county purposes. The bill as amended, adopted and signed by the Governor is as follows:

That the Court of Claims or Fiscal Court of each county in this Commonwealth is hereby authorized to levy and collect a poll and ad valorem tax, to pay off the existing current indebtedness and to defray the current and necessary expenses of the respective counties of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. But this section shall not be construed so as to authorize the Court of Claims or Fiscal Court of any county to levy a tax to pay any railroad bonded indebtedness or any interest on such indebtedness. That the poll tax shall not exceed one dollar and fifty cents on each male person of the age of twenty-one years or more, residing in the county. The ad valorem tax shall not exceed fifty cents on the one hundred dollars' worth of taxable property assessed in the county.

That the assessment made for State purposes, when supervised as required by law, shall be the basis for the levy and collection of the ad valorem tax authorized in the preceding section, and the officer who may collect the State revenue in each county shall also collect the aforesaid poll and ad valorem taxes.

That the Sheriff or other officer who may collect these taxes shall annually, before he proceeds to do so, execute bond to the Commonwealth of Kentucky, in the County Court of each respective county, with one or more sufficient sureties, in a sum equal to double the amount of the taxes likely to come into his hands, for a faithful performance of his duty, and to pay over in due time to the proper party, as directed by the court, all money collected by him; said bond to be approved by order of the County Court, and when approved, to be recorded in the order book and safely kept by the County Court Clerk; and the officer collecting said taxes shall be allowed the same compensation as officers are who collect the State revenue; and he shall annually settle his accounts with the Court of Claims or Fiscal Court as such collector, and may be required to settle oftener, in the discretion of said court, by order entered of record, a copy of which shall be served on the officer; and his settlements shall show the amount of poll tax, and also the amount of ad valorem tax collected, and an itemized statement of the moneys disbursed, and the same shall be published for at least two weeks in a paper published in the county having the largest circulation therein, if any be published in the county; if none, then the settlement shall be published by written or printed handbills, posted at the front door of the Court House, and at least three other public places in the county.

Said taxes shall be due at such times as the State revenue is, and any one owing same who shall fail or refuse to pay the same when due, shall be subject to the same penalties prescribed by law for the non-payment of the State revenue, to be enforced by the same proceedings.

The poll tax being limited to one dollar and fifty cents by the Constitution, and this, together with the ad valorem tax allowed to be collected by existing law, being greatly insufficient to pay off the existing current indebtedness and to defray the current expenses of many, if not all, the counties in the State, and said counties now having no authority to supplement the poll by an ad valorem tax to meet such expenses, therefore an emergency exists, and is hereby declared, and for these reasons this act shall take effect and be in force when approved by the Governor.

JOHN P. SALVER SPEAKS.

But Refuses to Recognize the Fact That HILL is Not "In It."

WEST LIBERTY, April 18, 1892.
EDITOR HAZEL GREEN HERALD:
I see in your paper of recent date allusion to me, as being spoken of as a suitable person to go to Chicago, as one of the Democratic delegates from this Congressional district, in which is expressed as the sole condition upon which I may hope for the support of THE HERALD, in thus being commissioned by the Democracy of this district, is my unqualified and unconditional support of THE HERALD's candidate, without variances or shadows of turning. The accomplishment of an object by false colors, under cover of reticence, is as reprehensible as victory won by pronounced deception. Consequently I must be candid, not only with THE HERALD, but with its readers and coadjutors, in the upbuilding of Democratic majorities in this Congressional district.

In seeking the position as delegate to the National Democratic Convention, I do so partly to gratify a personal ambition and chiefly to contribute in my humble way to the selection of a candidate who has the undivided support and confidence of his party neighbors, and whose fidelity to the principles and organization of the Democratic party is unquestioned and unquestionable; whose fidelity and devotion to personal and party friends have ever been such as to free him even from the suspicion of ingratitude; one whose public and private life is free from spot of blemish, and beyond all, and in connection with these, I want a candidate who will be elected; one who will not nurse the disappointment of a conscientious defeat; one who herds only with Democrats; one who is not a stump leaver or proclivities; one who has a warm spot in his heart for the boys in the trenches and whose success these boys will willingly and zealously labor.

If this is the kind of a candidate the Democracy of this district was named at the last election, then I am in line with their desires. I am wedded to the aspirations of no particular candidate, but all else being equal, my personal preference is decidedly for Mr. Carlisle, because he is my personal friend and the most distinguished citizen of this Commonwealth, a reliable Democrat, a true friend of the people and the intellectual equal of anybody. If it should be the opinion of the delegates at the convention that he has a reasonably fair show to carry the doubtful States necessary to secure Democratic success, his chances for the nomination are equal to those of any gentleman mentioned in connection therewith. Carlisle belongs to no faction in his party; he is a cosmopolitan Democrat in whom both labor and capital confide, and well they may for he is a conservative statesman.

Most intelligent Democrats recognize the fact that the vote of New York is necessary to Democratic success, and this being conceded, with the present factional fight existing between the Cleveland contingent and the party organization which favors Hill, I think it would be the sheerest political folly to nominate either of these distinguished gentlemen. However, from the plaintive wail of many, and the imperious demand of more of our newspaper friends, one led to believe that the Democratic party would be orphaned were our Grover gone, and his nomination now the only means of preventing the disintegration of this time-honored political organization to which we belong. Parties as well as individuals should profit by experience, and we failed to elect Mr. Cleveland with the power and prestige of his administration, at his back aided in the effort, and now with the lever of the Federal patronage in the hands of the enemy, who has the hardihood to assure of victory with Cleveland as our candidate, and that, too, when the Democracy of his own State has overwhelmingly pronounced against him by almost unanimously recommending another. I have no abuse for Mr. Cleveland, for he is an able and distinguished leader of our party of whom I, in common with the Democratic masses, am proud, but the past failure, his own expressed misgivings as to the wisdom of his nomination as the Democratic candidate and many unpromising circumstances which environ his aspirations, appear to me to make an absolute party duty to select another.

I am no hero worshipper, but I must confess that I have great admiration for the skillful leadership, party zeal and Democratic make-up of Senator Hill, and believe him to be an honest, able and efficient public servant, and unequalled as a political leader, and I do this notwithstanding the unwarranted and indiscreet assaults made upon him by his own party press, whose better judgment is beclouded by fanatical zeal for the promotion of Cleveland, forgetting in their ardor for one the great party service and matchless leadership of the other. To them the desire in Mr. Cleveland to be President is a Democratic virtue, but a like aspiration in Mr. Hill is a political heresy. In their eye the supporters of Hill in New York, with Gov. Flower at the head, are the bolters and disgruntled who favor Mr. Cleveland are reliable and trustworthily Democrats. In justice to a distinguished Democratic leader I want to say to our Democratic friends of the press, if Hill is the bad man you would make us believe he is, please file a bill of particulars setting forth his un-Democratic and disreputable conduct, and if you cannot do this, be content to praise your idol and bottle up your gall, or vent your spleen on our political enemies. Hill's chief sin is his great popularity with the New York Democracy. If we can consistently with honor and honesty, it is our duty to speak against him, and to do so, an attack upon the integrity of Mr. Hill is an assault upon the honor and virtue of the Democracy of the great State of New York, which has repeatedly honored him, and expresses a willingness now to continue to do so.

If the sentiments here expressed meet the kind consideration and approval of THE HERALD, the writer will be thankful, but should they fail to do so I will regret it, but should not sacrifice my sense of right for a representative position in the Chicago convention or elsewhere. I belong to that class of Democrats who will not "bend the pregnant hinges of the heaven" at their own party's fawning. If the Democracy of this district will name me as a delegate to the Chicago convention, I shall be proud to do so, and I will appreciate the honor. If not, I am contented to remain as I ever have been—a successful Democrat, anxious, energetic and earnest for the success of the party, and a genuine partisan, believing firmly in the doctrine that "to the victors belong the spoils." Your friend,

JOHN P. SALVER.

Address SPENCER COOPER, Hazel Green, Ky.

Mrs. Phoebe Yocum, of Hazel, who was visiting friends at this place last week, has returned home.

Bruce Little, of Jackson, a former student of Hazel Green Academy, was visiting friends here last week.

Rev. J. T. Pieratt will preach at the Frank Johnson school-house, on Lacy Creek, Sunday at 10:30 o'clock.

WANTED—A middle-aged woman, to cook, wash and iron for small family; good salary to right one. Apply at this office.

W. O. Mize, enrolling clerk of the Senate, came up Tuesday to see his wife and son and remain over until after the election.

Married, on Thursday, the 14th inst., by Rev. J. T. Pieratt, at his residence, John H. Brooks and Miss Mary Lacy, all of this county.

Mrs. J. Taylor Day and little daughter Daisy, who have been visiting relatives at Mt. Sterling for sometime past, returned home Tuesday.

Scott Lacy, a brother of our fellow-townsmen, W. G. Lacy, accompanied Jeff Wells and wife to their home in Iowa, and will in future make his home with them.

Register Swango and wife came up Tuesday from Frankfort to spend a short season with friends and relatives at this place, and the Judge wanted to be here to cast his vote for Joe Kendall for Congress.

There will be a meeting of the stockholders of the Hazel Green Fair Association held on the first Saturday in May to elect officers for the ensuing year, and President Rose requests a full attendance at 2 p. m.

J. B. Cecil, of Morgan county, was here Tuesday with his horse, Forrest Stonewall, and will again be here on Tuesday, May 3, for three days, after which he will return every two weeks. He certainly has in Forrest Stonewall a very handsome horse.

Do not fail to read the mammoth advertisement of J. T. Day & Co., which appears in this issue of our paper. The list of bargains therein contained is the grandest ever offered the people of this community, and people with a little cash money can buy a multitude of goods.

Lost—A badge with the name J. M. Davidson engraved on the back. There is a small gold chain and pin with monogram of J. M. D. on the pin. There is a Greek inscription on badge. It was lost April 4th, and the finder will be liberally rewarded by leaving at this office.

Our young friend, W. G. Lacy, will resign the position of Secretary to the Hazel Green Fair Association at the meeting of that organization in May, when his successor will be elected. Mr. Lacy has held the position since the association was organized, and it will be hard to secure a man so generally liked as Grant.

Our old friend Chas. E. Habicht, who was a faithful attaché of this establishment for fourteen months ending last November is again with us. The people of Hazel Green were glad to welcome him back, and those of his country friends who have not yet seen him may find him at THE HERALD office at all times, where he will be ready and willing to wait on them.

Would Rather Do Without Breakfast.

TORRENT, April 20, 1892.
MR. SPENCER COOPER—Dear Editor: You will please find enclosed $1 for which you may send me your valuable paper for the next twelve months, as it will give me the news and also tell me of my old friends of Texas. My girls Nannie and Mollie say they would much rather do without their breakfast every Sunday morning than to be without THE HERALD. You will also find enclosed $1 for which you may send my brother your paper for one year. You may address him, Andrew A. Adams, Whitesburg, Letcher county, Ky. Hoping you will send me your paper, my family joins me in sending out their love for the good old HERALD.

Yours, with much regard,
JESSE ADAMS.

People's Convention.

The voters of the Tenth Congressional district who favor financial reform, will meet at their respective county seats in mass convention, April 30, 1892, at one o'clock p. m., and proceed to elect a County Committee of one member from each voting precinct, and delegates as follows: Breathitt, 5; Clark, 5; Estill, 8; Lee, 6; Elliott, 5; Floyd, 7; Knott, 5; Magoffin, 8; Martin, 5; Montgomery, 5; Johnson, 7; Morgan, 11; Menifee, 7; Pike, 5; Powell, 5 and Wolfe, 8, to the Congressional district convention to be held in the town of Campton, Wolfe county, Ky., May 7, 1892, to nominate a candidate for Congress, and send delegates to State convention, June 8, 1892.
J. E. QUICKSALL, Chairman,
County and District Com.

I wish to say to the good people of Hazel Green and Hazel that I wish to return them my heartfelt thanks for the many favors they bestowed on me in my distress since the fire. I hope and pray the good Lord to bless them if I am never able to do so myself. I do think they deserve my thanks. May the Lord bless us all and help us do our part in developing our country and people in morals and christianity. THE HERALD will please publish. Yours as ever,
D. G. COMBS and FAMILY.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells, who have been visiting relatives and friends in and around Hazel Green for a month past, left for their home at Bedford, Iowa, Friday. Mrs. Wells is a sister of W. T. Caskey, and she and her husband lived here a long time, but twenty years ago they left for the west, and there they have since resided. They like that country very much, but think Hazel Green has improved wonderfully during their absence.

W. B. Hays, who has been with us since the dormitory was established in our town, and who was a faithful employee of that institution, left for his home at Bridgeport, Ills., this week. Will Hays made many friends during his stay among us, and with them THE HERALD joins in the best wishes for his future prosperity.

Our better—has a scarlet geranium which is in full bloom and measures 7 feet 6 inches from top of ground to top of plant. It is the largest specimen of this geranium we have ever seen, and we should like to know if any one has ever seen a larger one.

S. P. Davidson and J. W. Hatcher, of Wolfe, Floyd county, were guests of the Day House Friday. They were here in the interest of their kinsman, Hon. J. M. Kendall, and left for home Saturday, after subscribing for THE HERALD.

Hon. W. M. Kendall, of West Liberty, was a guest of the Day House, Friday, and was assisting in counting out the tickets for his kinsman, Hon. J. M. Kendall, and sending them to the several counties in the district.

Hon. Joseph M. Kendall was a guest of the Day House, Friday, and left Saturday for Menifee, Montgomery and Clark counties to see his constituents.

Campton Currency.

A. C. Byrd will soon have his new house completed.

G. W. Drake has purchased of J. B. Hollon the house and lot formerly owned by A. T. Hurst.

G. T. Center has been at Clay City during the past week overseeing the sawing of his timber at the Clay City mills.

A. A. Stamper is off on a business trip to Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. He will perhaps be gone for three or four weeks. C. M. Hanks, Sr., is now very low. It is thought by his attending physician, J. H. Stamper, M. D., that he will not likely recover.

Work is starting up again on Wm. L. Hurst's brick dwelling. He is building a brick 52x52 feet, two stories high. When completed it will be by far the finest house in town.

W. N. Allen, the representative of Almaty & Allen, of Milwaukee, Wis., was in town Saturday and Sunday. He has now gone back to Lee City, in which vicinity he will take up a lot of poplar, ash and pine timber.

Jeremiah Elkins has moved into G. W. Robinson's new dwelling, which is now about completed. C. C. Hanks has moved into the Isaac Elkins property, which he purchased some time ago. W. H. P. Duff has moved back to town, and now occupies his property that has been occupied by C. C. Hanks for some time. April 19. REPORTER.

ON THE CREST OF THE HILL.

The breeze was sweet, and the breeze was chill
On that far brown hill,
Where the sunset lingered long and late,
Like a smile of fate.

Many and many a time we stood
(Oh, the gods were good),
We two, alone, on that lonely height
In the fading light.

Like shadowy ghosts the sails swept down
Past the quiet town,
And over the dim, white harbor bar
Shone the first pure star.

Oh, sweet! * * * And I watched its splendor
Grow
Through the sunset glow,
With sometimes—not often—the bliss divine
Of your hand in mine.

And still the breeze blows over the hill,
And still the faint star still Shines through the haze, and the boats go by
'Neath the darkening sky.

But the star and the wind and the dim, sweet
Sea
Are no more for me.
And no more for me is the hand I pressed
On the hill's brown crest.

—Madeline S. Bridges, in Leslie's Weekly.

Lucy, with her proud, impatient nature, had wondered sometimes at Olive's sisterly feeling for the Challock girls. There was no one in the village who had not been surprised at the second marriage of Olive's mother, the widow Winfield. Why a woman with her natural refinement should have taken rough Tom Challock was a mystery indeed; and yet such mysteries are found everywhere. Tom was a widower with two daughters of his own, and the girls seemed to take more kindly to Olive than he did. For in his coarse way he let her see that he did not want her under his roof, and she secretly longed to find a shelter elsewhere. By and by, perhaps sooner than she dared to expect, Michael would have made a home for his promised wife; but, meanwhile, the waiting was as hard as Tom Challock could make it. And already Lucy Cromer had suggested that it would be better to go away and earn her own bread far off than live in her step-father's cottage.

"Have you said anything to Michael about my plan?" Lucy asked, after a moment's pause.

"No," replied Olive, with a sigh. "The time was so short, you know; and if it came to nothing he would be disappointed. Ah! if it could only be carried out, how happy I should be, Lucy!"

"I believe it will be carried out," Lucy said, quietly.

Her eyes were gazing through the little window at the bit of evening sky that could be seen under the heavy thatch. The sun had gone down, leaving that pure and peaceful light that belongs to the evenings of early spring, and Lucy seemed to gaze as if she could never have enough of its beauty. One or two slight tendrils were outlined darkly and delicately upon that clear background, and once or twice they trembled a little at the breath of a soft wind. Olive sat silently on her stool by the couch, her hands were clasped round her knees, her heart had gone out after her lover, traveling away through the dusk to the great city. She almost started when Lucy spoke again. What words were these her friend was saying?

"When you are in London, Olive, you will be glad that you once had a home in the country. You must not let anything come between you and your sweet memories. You must not drop your habit of watching the clouds and the changing lights and shades, even when you have lost your old green fields. Don't take the world into your soul."

"The world is too much with us; late and soon, Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers."

It is often so with those who go to dwell in great cities, and earn their bread there; they lose all their early communion with nature, and forget where they knew her when they were young. Some day, dear, you may be thankful to have glimpses that will make you less lonely."

"But, Lucy, I am not going to London to be forlorn!" cried Olive, reproachfully. "Michael is there."

"Michael?" there? Lucy said, calmly; "and for his sake, as well as for yours, I say again, don't take the world into your soul. Great artists tell us that if they paint a landscape without a glimpse of sky it depresses the general effect. Never let the sky be quite shut out of your life. It may soon be done, Olive; when we begin to build walls around us, we don't know how high they will rise; when we plant our grooves, we can't tell how thick they will grow. Always leave an opening through which you can see Heaven."

Olive looked at her, and was struck by the light on her wasted features. Olive's life was widening at the close; her view of Heaven was broader than it had ever been before, and the glory that she saw was reflected on her face, which was "as the face of an angel."

"I know you are much wiser than I am, and I sometimes fancy that you can see farther into the future than others can. Are you looking into my future, and seeing things that you will not speak of plainly?"

"Do not frighten yourself about my forecasting, my dear child," Lucy answered very tenderly. "I can foresee no trials in your life that a brave spirit cannot live through. Only I would warn you not to part with the very portion of yourself which will enable you to bear those trials. Keep your old trust in a Power that is over all; listen to the voices that tell you of that peace which shall assuredly follow the strife. Do not let the world so blind and deafen you that, when sorrow comes, the true light may shine and the true voice speak in vain. Oh, Olive, it is not trouble that is to be feared; it is the loss of those qualities in us, which help us to meet trouble bravely."

"But, Lucy, Olive's lips were trembling. 'I shall have Michael by my side, and he is so strong! I think of all the difficulties he has conquered! Can I be afraid of anything while he takes care of me?'"

Lucy was silent for a moment. It was true, indeed, that she saw things in the future that she would not plainly speak of. It needed only a little knowledge of humanity to foresee that this girl's deepest suffering would come to her through the man she loved.

"I am sure you don't like him," the poor child went on. "What has he said that displeases you? Ah! I am disappointed; I thought you would say I was the most fortunate girl in the world!"

Lucy bent forward and kissed her. "Olive," she said gently, "I shall like him better when he thinks more of you and less of that great ideal—success. I see that he is clever, dear—very clever in his own way; and so determined that he is almost sure to win the things that he is seeking. Only I could wish that he had eyes to see the treasures that he passes by while he runs the race. I wish that he would sometimes give a thought to those things that are not won by mighty effort, but, given freely—given by a Father's bounty and love. Surely life need not be all striving, Olive."

"Oh no!" murmured Olive with a sigh. "I feel that it takes a very little to make me perfectly contented. But men are different, I suppose; they want far more than we do, and they must struggle till they get it. For my part, Lucy, I should love to live in a cottage with Michael, and be just myself. But he wants me to be more than myself. I daresay he is right; to him I must seem a very ignorant, uninformed creature."

"You are not an ignorant, considerate that you are a village girl," Lucy answered. "The old vicar, who helped Michael so much, must have been your friend also. It surprised me, when I first came to London, to find a girl who is a reader and a thinker. Take courage, my child; you are not as far behind Michael in the race as you suppose. And if our plan is really carried out, you will learn a great deal with your uncle Walter."

"Lucy," Olive said, looking up suddenly, "you have never told me how you came to know anything of my uncle Walter."

A slight flush rose to Lucy's face, and she was gone in an instant.

"Mr. Wake keeps a second-hand bookshop in the Strand," she replied quietly. "A friend of mine, who is very fond of books, used to take me there often, and my uncle talked as only those who read can talk. It was a pleasure to go to that shop; some of the happiest moments of my life were spent among those piles of old volumes. Mr. Wake's cheerful voice and kind face can never be forgotten! That man understood everybody, and sympathized with everybody, I believe. He was a large man with a large heart. He gave people chances of snatching little bits of happiness. Oh, Olive, I think an old bookshop is one of the most delightful places in the universe. You happen to be missed, no girl who is looking for you in such a dusty, musty retreat. The most glorious fragments of life are often hidden away in dull spots where few can find them. Between the dingy covers of some of these ancient books one might come upon poems that sparkled and glowed with immortal light and beauty. Some of our brightest memories are shut up, I believe, in the dimmest nooks and corners of the world!"

Olive looked at her in silent surprise. The beautiful woman's face had grown young again; the eyes were shining.

"But you love the country, don't you, Lucy?" she asked, after a pause.

"Yes," Lucy's face grew pale and still again. "Yes, it is good to be here. I feel that I am resting before I go to rest."

"I wish you would not talk so," Olive said, with tears gathering in her large brown eyes. "Lately I have thought you better, dear; and Michael told him to suppose. You could talk and laugh with him, and it made me happy to see you so bright."

"I would do a great deal to make you happy," Lucy answered, stroking the girl's smooth cheek. "And now that the spring has come, Olive, I shall begin to teach you my craft. You must go out to-morrow and gather

"Knots of flowers, and buds and garlands gay."

"My fingers have not lost their old cunning, and I know that I shall have a quick pupil."

Olive moved from her seat and sank down on her knees with her head on Lucy's breast.

"I am something else for me," she murmured. "Try to love Michael for my sake. Try to see him with my eyes and feel for him with my heart."

Lucy smoothed the brown hair away from the young face and soothed her with loving words, as though she had been a little child. This woman, who was going out to the world, pitted the other, who had to tread the old, thorny path. She had been left upon the road alone, and had hastened on before, some had lapsed and stayed behind; the hand that had clasped hers had suddenly loosened its hold, and then she had stumbled blindly on in utter anguish and desolation; her misery, too, had passed away. All that remained to her now was peace; the end was near; the tired feet had only a little way farther to go.

She would not paint a blissful picture of Olive's future and so fill the girl's mind with false hopes; nor would she ever promise to love Michael for her sake. And yet she talked in such a fashion that Olive forgot her dissatisfaction and her own misery, and saw its origin more to Michael himself than to Lucy's lukewarm praise of him. She spoke of the right way of living one's life; of sympathies that throw out tendrils and clasp other lives; of that unspeakable calm which comes to those who are true and who love truth, even if their hearts are torn with suffering.

And Olive, hearing her friend speak, seemed no longer afraid of anything. She took Lucy's hand and looked at it with grateful eyes. "I shall never forget your words," she said. "You have made me feel strong."

CHAPTER III.

Mr. Challock did not disapprove of Olive's intimacy with her next-door neighbors; but she was slow to believe that her daughter could really learn a useful art from Lucy Cromer. Peggy and Jane looked on in wonder and while Olive wove her garlands, and Tom Challock laughed the whole business to scorn.

"So Olive wants to go to London and earn her living, does she?" he said, about a week after Michael's visit. "Well, I've no objection; but don't tell me there's a living to be made out of poetry-making. It's natural enough that she should want to be running after that some man and chasing after a sharp eye upon him. It's my belief that he's too high and mighty for Olive."

"But if he hadn't cared for her he would not have come here again," cried Jane.

Peggy sighed and shook her head. She was a young woman who was naturally disposed to see the gloomy side of things.

"I'm afraid father is right," she said. "He is very high, and I think he came partly to show himself off."

Just then Olive herself appeared at the open door, and there was a flush on her face which told that the words had reached her ears. Her mother, who sat sewing, gave her a quick glance.

"HE'S TOO HIGH AND MIGHTY FOR OLIVE."

and a little nod. She did not wish her daughter to pay any heed to anything that Peggy or her father might say. Mrs. Challock lived on the whole perfectly content with her husband, but although she would not quarrel, she quietly resented his unkind speeches about Olive. Now differently he had talked when she came courting the pretty widow upon the pale horse, and woman, and she knew that her second marriage was a mistake, but she would not let the whole village know her secret.

Olive, what have you there?" asked Jane, suddenly catching sight of the figure in the doorway.

"Come and see," said Olive, vanishing; and Jane threw down her needle-work and ran after her.

The two girls stood together outside the cottage, and Olive displayed a wreath of fern and moss studded with bunches of violets and primroses. Even Jane, inexperienced as she was, could see that the garland was the work of artistic hands; the flowers had been arranged as delicately as if a fairy had touched them; it was "an odorous chaplet," fresh from the kisses of April showers.

"And this is your doing," said Jane, admiringly. "And people who do this thing in a London shop? Well, I am sure they would in spite of father's sneers. He knows nothing of great towns and their ways; old Fenlake at the inn is a good deal wiser than father."

Olive smiled, well pleased with such simple praise. She was happy this evening; the light wind ruffled her thick hair and blew it into little curls and rings about her temples; her eyes were full of sunshine. The letter which had come that morning from

OLIVE'S GAZE WAS FIXED UPON THE TREE TOPS.

Michael had made her very glad, and already she had forgotten the words which Peggy had spoken a few minutes ago.

"The kingpins will be out soon," she said. "Lucy tells me that she has made lovely sprays of them for the ladies here, and I think of them lately. Only the children who gather them by handfuls and throw them away. They last a long time with their thick stems and shiny yellow flow."

"Your heart is in London, Olive," Jane remarked, keeping back a sigh.

"And yours too," Olive answered, hanging her wreath on a bush, and already she was walking towards the garden gate. Jane followed her, and they crossed the road, and stood looking across the field to the low hills. A fresh odor came from the damp grass, and from those white violets which grow profusely under the hedges, in spring and above the slopes drifted one or two fleecy clouds, touched with the first gold of the sunset. The undulating downs, with their soft curves rising gently against the horizon, are the chief charm of Hampshire. In this quiet country, haunted by the tinkle of sheep-bells and the bleating of flocks, there is no sternness, no rugged grandeur; it is a pleasant dreamy land of pastures, delicious where one half expects to meet Corydon and Phyllis, with his oaten pipe, she with her belt of straw and ivy buds, just as they used to be when the world and love were young.

"Olive," said Jane, resting her arm on the gate, and speaking in a low voice, "did Michael say anything about Aaron in his last letter?"

"No," Olive answered, with a pang of regret. "Michael has a great deal to think about, you know. His mind is full of plans, and he can write of nothing else."

"Yes," Jane said, with a patient little sigh. "I suppose all clever people are something like Michael, they are too busy with their own ideas to spare a thought for the dull ones. And yet, what good the might do if they did give a moment or two to those who are slow of mind? They were like brothers once—Aaron and Michael."

Olive's gaze was fixed upon the tree-tops, and she stared upon the pale face of the evening sky; but, although her face was calm, the pain at her heart was sharper than ever. She would have given anything that she possessed if she could have seen Aaron again, and she knew that she never would.

Here was a nature in which truth had taken such a deep root that it could never be up-rooted. It was always there, the strong consciousness of right, the sweet, stern sense of justice and fairness.

"Have you heard from Aaron lately?" she asked, after a pause.

"I had a letter this morning," Jane answered, still with the patient sadness in her voice. "It is a strange letter. It makes me feel as if he were a prisoner in Doubting castle. You remember reading to us about Giant Despair, Olive? Well, it seems that the giant has got poor Aaron into his power, and I am afraid he will make an end of him."

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—Mr. Edward Coleman, of San Francisco, has given $50,000 to endow a professorship of apologetics in the Gregational Theological seminary in California.

—Fifteen per cent. of the students attending Sydney university, in Australia, are women, whose advancement there is keeping step with their progress in America.

—Miss Julia Dickinson, of Coldwater, died recently at the Bahama Islands, among other generous bequests she left $40,000 to Oberlin college, half for the endowment of the lady principalship and half for physical culture training.

There are about 3,300,000 Presbyterians in Scotland. There are 1,600 places of worship in connection with the church of Scotland, and 1,575 in connection with the Free and United Presbyterian church—in all 3,225, or more than 1 church for every 1,000 of the population.—Missionary Review.

—The Pope passes a busy and hard working day. He rises at six, and until two o'clock, when he dines, he is continuously occupied, except for a brief supper, in the gardens of the Vatican, can at noon. After dinner he rests until four o'clock, when he begins a series of duties that keep him busy until nine at night, at which time he eats supper. This last meal of the day is the most substantial one. It is composed of roast meats, eggs, and champagne with rum or marschino in it. N. Y. World.

The American Bible society has decided to make an exhibit at the World fair in Chicago in 1893, similar in many respects to that at Philadelphia in 1876, when specimens of Bibles were shown in over 300 different languages. It is proposed also to provide for the sale of the Scriptures, and for their free distribution to foreign visitors. The necessary expense will be provided for out of the regular funds of the society, and considerable sums have already been given for the purpose.

By the will of Elias C. Hendrickson, who died a month ago at Holts, L. I., several thousand dollars are left for religious purposes. Among the bequests are $10,000 to the general synod of the Reformed church, for the support of indigent young men studying for the ministry; $10,000 to the Reformed church, for the support of the Reformed church; $5,000 to the Reformed church of Queens, the sum to be invested in real estate; the Allen Methodist Episcopal church receives $500, and the Reformed church receives $500 to be used in painting and repairing.

A curious lawsuit has been instituted in Shenandoah, Va. A few days ago a young man, Paul Jones, brought their infant child to the Episcopal church to be baptized. Before the ceremony began Jones arose and exclaimed: "Hold up, if you christen this child, I will sue you for the religion of the father. I am an English Baptist." The wife said it was her wish to have the child christened, and the minister proceeded with the ceremony. The husband then had the clergyman arrested under a law which states that a father has the spiritual and educational control of his child until it arrives at the age of maturity. The case has been sent to court, where it will be tried.

"SCRAMBLED" OR "SCAMLED."

A Little Discussion Between a Hotel Guest and a Colored Waiter.

"And scrambled eggs," said a guest at the St. James, as he sat at a table, after he was waiting for a colored waiter. The gentleman wore a little pointed red beard, his features were of classic mold, and through his pair of gold-rimmed glasses he looked like a T-m-a-u-n-i-v-e-r-s-i-t-y-m-a-n. "Scrambled eggs," did you say?" repeated the colored waiter, and he laid emphasis on the absence of the "r." The guest raised his eyes from the plate upon which they were intently fixed. "Scrambled eggs," repeated the guest with the T-m-a-u-n-i-v-e-r-s-i-t-y-m-a-n air, and he drew his silk handkerchief from his pocket and wiped it in the air just as if he were a young lawyer endeavoring to make an impression on an old witness. "Scrambled eggs," again repeated the waiter, and this time he gave the word a more emphatic and professional reply. Thereupon the waiter burst into a hearty laugh, in which the cook joined, and the waiter who had omitted his "r" was asked by the guest to repeat the word. "I'll make a bet," said the young waiter, "that 'scrambled' is the correct word." And bets were made all readily accepting the offer. Then the dictionary was obtained, and was sure enough, the word "scamled" was found. The meaning given is to stir or to shake. In the old editions of Webster it is stated that it is equivalent to "scramble," which has usurped its place. The waiter sticks to his assertion that he is right, and the university professor says it is the first time he ever heard such a dialectal usage among a number of colored hotel attendants.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

She Wanted to Shop.

Massachusetts Democracy in Cleveland.
Massachusetts Democrats elected delegates large Friday to the National Convention. They were not instructed, but the Convention was distinctly a Cleveland meeting and declared its preference for the ex-President. The platform, which is admirable both in contents and construction, advocates tariff reform and economic government, and opposes the free coinage of silver without international agreement. The delegates chosen are strong for Cleveland and tariff reform.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 820 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Organization.

An address is being sent out from the headquarters of the National Association of Democratic Clubs at Washington, urging the necessity of prompt, efficient and general organization for the campaign. It should be headed by Democrats. Organization is the greatest single power in politics. A careful examination would probably show that the doubtful States are always carried by the party having the best organization.

Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment.

A CERTAIN cure for Chronic Sore Eyes, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Old Chronic Sores, Fever Sores, Eczema, Itch, Pruritic Scratches, Sore Nipples and Piles. It is cooling and soothing. Hundreds of cases have been cured by it after all other treatment had failed. It is put up in 25 and 50 cent boxes. For sale by Rose & Swango.

Handsome Appropriation.

An ordinance appropriating $1,000 toward the entertainment of the State Press Association, which will meet in Lexington on May 8, has been passed by the Council of the Commonwealth. The Committee have been appointed, and it is the intention of the Press Club of Lexington to make this the most successful meeting ever held in the State.

Charles E. Buchanan, of Hazel Green, Ky., writes: "That bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Medicine I bought of Rose & Jones the other day has worked wonders. My sister could hardly move and could not sleep for coughing and spitting blood. The first dose gave relief, and she is doing well now."

Valuable Purchase.

Crab Orchard Springs has been sold to a syndicate of Indianapolis capitalists, who will convert the old water cure place into an institute for the bi-chloride of gold treatment for the opium and liquor habits. The price paid for the property was $100,000. The new owners have bought of Dr. Keeley the sole right for the use of his remedies in Kentucky, and propose to establish at Crab Orchard one of the finest sanitariums in the country.

For lame back there is nothing better than to saturate a flannel cloth with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on the affected parts. Try it and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. The same treatment will cure rheumatism. For sale by Rose & Jones.

Negroes Going West.

So many negroes are leaving the Republican cause in Christian, Ky., to get free homes in the Oklahoma Territory, that the white man and brother of the p. o. in that county are no little alarmed over the outlook for a change in political supremacy there.

A Guaranteed Remedy.

Mergoline, the only permanent cure for all forms of headache and neuralgia, relieves the pain in from 15 to 20 minutes. For sale on positive guarantee at THE HERALD office, or sent postpaid by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents a box.

Killed by a Falling Rock.

Louis George, a white miner in mine No. 1, at Blocton, Ala., was instantly killed by a falling rock from the roof of the tunnel. The rock weighed several tons, and the unfortunate man was mangled to a pulp.

A gentleman in Union county, Mo., who is too modest a man to have his name mentioned in the newspapers, was cured of rheumatism by Chamberlain's Pain Balm, after trying other medicines and treatment for thirteen years. For sale by Rose & Jones.

Suicide of a Drummer.

John Reese, a Louisville drummer, deliberately threw himself in front of a train at Humboldt, Tenn., a few days since, and was instantly killed.

Cedar Grove Stock Farm.

Mr. J. T. Mock, of Danville, says: "I can cheerfully recommend Quin's Ointment to all horsemen as the very best remedy in use. It cures Cuts, Sprains, Wind-puffs or any enlargement, gives it a trial. For sale by Rose & Jones."

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

A Perfect Success. VII

The Rev. A. Antoine, of Inceburg, Tex., writes: As far as I am able to judge, I think Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic is a perfect success, for anyone who suffers from a most painful nervousness as I did. I feel the most myself again after taking the Tonic.

A Sunday School Superintendent Endorses It.

SECRETARY, Des Moines Co., Md., March 9, '91.

A scholar in the M. E. Sunday school out of which I am Superintendent, I know was compelled to stay home on account of his ailment (epilepsy) day after day for several months, but after using Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic he attended regularly. I think he cured the most nervous child I have ever seen or heard of, and that this Tonic deserves the highest commendation it has any talent deserving it.

ASHLAND PARK STALLIONS FOR 1892.

BERMUDA 5874.

Yearling exhibition 2:39 1/2; two-year-old record 2:29 1/2; three-year-old record 2:24 1/2 (fourth heat); four-year-old record 2:22 1/2; five-year-old record 2:20 1/2 (fourth heat); six-year-old record 2:17. Black horse, 13 1/2 hand high, foaled June 15, 1885. Bred at Ashland Park.

SIRE BY BANKER 6144.

Own brother to Grand dam of Casper 2:20 1/2, Watt 2:24 1/2, William Kearney 2:20 1/2, and Lyander Chief 2:40. First dam Pattie Patchen, trial 2:30. Second dam Chesnut Wilks 2:20 by Mambrino Patchen, sire of the dam of Gay Wilks 2:15 1/2, Astry 2:18, Rosa Wilks 2:18 1/2, Elvira 2:18 1/2, Cleora 2:18 1/2, Hour 2:17, and twenty-nine others is the 2:30 list.

Second dam Mandy by Stanhope's Blood Hawk, sire of the dam of Abner 2:17 1/2, and Aley Wilks 2:26 1/2.

Third dam Patty by Downing's Vermont, sire of the dam of Knight 2:26, Manbrino Bruce 2:40, sire of Kit Curry 2:18 1/2; Bell Wilks 2:25; Giff's Vermont, sire of Bern Boy 2:20; and the dams of Abel 2:24 1/2, Col. Bradshaw 2:20 1/2, Nelly L. 2:23 1/2, Giambetta 2:26, The King 2:29 1/2, Outhill 2:29 1/2, Pat 2:30.

Fourth dam Jessie by Thomas Jefferson. He is a beautiful black, with right hind ankle white, stands 15 1/2 hand high, and is a perfect horse all round, having both bone and substance, combined with the form and finish characteristic of the cross he so well represents, viz.: Hanoverian sire and Mambrino Patchen dam. This cross stands as the very best, because public performances have demonstrated its value. Of many representatives not one is the superior of Bermuda, for not one has demonstrated the same ability to train in from year to year, beginning with the yearling form. None are better bred or better looking.

As a sire his success is assured, as out of eight, his first crop, two entered the list last year as two-year-olds, namely Bermuda Boy 2:30 (handful track) and Casper 2:25 1/2. Bermuda Boy being one of the largest winners, two-year-olds of 1891, his first colts were foaled in 1889. Judged at this age no stallion ever stood so high, and his natural gifts, with speed unprecedented. He will stand for mares, season of 1892, at $200 TO INSURE the money to be paid as follows: $100 at the time of service, and the other $100 when the mare proves in foal, being limited to thirty outside of town. Parties wishing to breed to him had better book their mares early.

FAVETTE WILKS 2036

(Exhibition trial Oct. 9, 1886, 2:23 1/2.)

Bay horse, 15 hands, high, foaled May 3, 1878. The handsomest son of his great sire, and the handsomest of any trotting bred in the country. He is a perfect horse all round, and his first crop, two entered the list last year as two-year-olds, namely Bermuda Boy 2:30 (handful track) and Casper 2:25 1/2.

Sire of Harry Wilks 2:17 1/2, Gay Wilks 2:15 1/2, Mike Wilks 2:15 1/2, Wagon 2:10 1/2, and 12 others. He is a perfect horse all round, and his first crop, two entered the list last year as two-year-olds, namely Bermuda Boy 2:30 (handful track) and Casper 2:25 1/2.

Mares bred by the season not proving in foal have the usual privileges of return.

For sale at prices based on actual individual merit. He is a perfect horse all round, and his first crop, two entered the list last year as two-year-olds, namely Bermuda Boy 2:30 (handful track) and Casper 2:25 1/2.

First dam Sally Hamlet (winner of two-year-old Hamlet stakes in 1875) by Hamlet sire of Loretta 1:18 1/2, A. V. Pauline 2:30 1/2, Truro, pacer, 2:22 1/2; Lady M. 2:23, Leone 2:23 1/2, Brookside Flora 2:25, and the dams of Blanche 2:18 1/2, Cleora 2:18 1/2, Grandy 2:25 1/2, Graceful 2:25 1/2, and Hamletella 2:29 1/2.

Second dam Pauline of Coaster 2:20 1/2, Captain Clay, Driftwood, and granddam of Marlboro, pacer, 2:15 by Canada Chief, sire of Frank 2:30, Governor 2:30 and Joe Hooker, sire Maud Mauer 2:17 1/2.

Third dam, the dam of Soff, that produced Blanche 2:25 1/2, by Imp. Yorkshire, sire of the dam of Ashland Chief, sire of Black Cloud 2:17 1/2.

Fourth dam by Woodpecker, thoroughbred, sire of Prince 2:27, ten miles in 28:00. The fee of Fayette Wilks is within the reach of all, and lower than that of any horse of equal merit in Kentucky. Season $300, or $200 TO INSURE.

WEST CLOUD 5195.

Out of the dam of Black Cloud 2:17 1/2, his sire out of the dam of Wilson 2:16 1/2. Bay horse, foaled March 31, 1884. Bred at Ashland Park.

SIRE BY ABDALLAH WEST 2383.

(Sire of Wilks 2:27.)

First dam, the dam of Black Cloud 2:17 1/2, by Pilot Walker, pacer.

Second dam the Duke Pacing Mare, NOTE.—Abdallah West 2383, by Allie West, first dam Miss Coons, dam of Wilson 2:16 1/2, by Clark Chief, second dam Ohio by American Jay; third dam brought from Ohio and represented to be by Brown's Bellefleur, Abdallah West died at six years old. He was the most promising colt I ever bred.

West Cloud is a rich mahogany bay, 15 hands 2 inches, with black mane and tail, and black legs extending above knees and hocks. He is a powerfully built horse of his height, and has the most finished set of feet and legs it is possible to get on a horse of any breed. As a two-year-old he gave evidence of being possessed of remarkable speed, as with little handling he trotted a half-mile in 1:18 1/2 and miles in his work in 2:40. At three years old he was not training, owing to a very severe attack of pink eye. He also did no work on the track at four years old, but he was a most intelligent and trained lightly, more for the purpose of ascertaining if he was entirely cured of his eye, than for anything else. In a few months he trotted a full mile in 2:38 and half in 1:15. The season of 1892 he is a candidate for my own, and was not put to work until September, and his improvement was most remarkable. He repeated a trotted halves in 1:10, and I am confident he will win with a season's training, trot in 2:30. I will let him serve twenty mares, season of 1892, outside of town, at $100 TO INSURE the money to be paid as follows: $100 at the time of service, and the other $100 when the mare proves in foal.

Mares bred by the season not proving in foal have the usual privileges of return. Of producing dams, by a greater number of merit. I wish to farm or breed on the shares.

B. J. TREACY, Ashland Park Farm, Lexington, Ky.

I breed sound, highly-finished trotters, and prominent sires than any farm in the land. Two approved mares. For further information, call on me.

GOLD DUST.

This combined year stallion will make the season of 1892 at my stables in Hazel Green, Ky., and will serve mares at TEN DOLLARS TO INSURE A LIVING COLT. Money due when the mare foals, with a lien on colt until the money is paid, or if the mare is partly bred, to another horse the money is then due.

DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE.

GOLD DUST is 6 years old the 26th day of May, 1892, 16 hands high, a beautiful chestnut, with star and white hind feet, beautiful mane and tail. His power, style and action are unsurpassed. He was sired by Senator Blackhawk, bred by Dillard Dudley, he by John Clark, the grandchild of Phil Thompson, record 2:16; Erie, McLeod and Nick, with records better than 2:25. His dam was sired by the Phillips horse, the sire of Bill Jones, by Gen. Taylor, &c.

Also, at the same stables will be found the elegantly bred young trotting stallion, POST BOY, JR.

Who will serve a limited number of approved mares at TEN DOLLARS TO INSURE A LIVING COLT, on same terms as above.

DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE.

POST BOY, JR. was sired by Post Boy, record 2:23; by Magic, sire of Clemmie G. 2:14; Albie Stoner, 2:24; Mystery, 2:26; and dam Mollie, sire of Mollie's son, the sire of Santa Clara 2:17; Tucker, 2:20; Cricket 2:19, Adams 2:11 1/2; Bonnie Union, 2:19; Sister V. 2:21; Hummer 2:21; Seneca Wilmore 2:22 1/2; Blueberry 2:23 1/2, and a number of others in the 2:30 list.

He is a beautiful chestnut with no marks, 7 years old May 15th, 1892, 15 hands 3 inches high, and gives promise of being hand from the future among the best. Any one who is familiar with Sider's Post Boy will readily recognize Post Boy, Jr.

And last, but not least, will be found at the same stables the well-known and highly appreciated JACK.

GEN. JOHN MORGAN.

Who will serve mares at TEN DOLLARS TO INSURE A LIVING COLT, on same terms as above. This stock has no superior as a good breeder.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible for any loss of mare.
